We know the building industry.

Shipments for the building industry are challenging. The products you load are heavy, and shipments generally max out before they cube out. Whatever your shipments—doors, windows, roofing materials, lumber, brick, cement, OSB, or plywood—they're vulnerable to abrupt stops, load shifting, and unequal load distribution. To help meet the challenges, we've built up the best engineering and research-and-development capabilities in the business.

Down River™ Load Securement Specialists can come to your loading docks, analyze your shipments, and design the most efficient loading diagram and securement solution for you. We can train your employees how to use our products quickly and efficiently, minimizing load time.

G-FORCE™

LOAD SECUREMENT INNOVATIONS

Down River™ G-Force™ experts can help preserve your profits in these key areas:

Safety

Properly secured products don't shift under normal conditions, so loads remain stable. Down River G-Force has a wide range of products that prevent lengthwise and side-to-side shifting.

Ergonomics and Damage Reduction

Down River G-Force Products are light and easy to handle, but very strong. So your employees can brace big loads quickly and easily. Their effective designs help reduce damage to your shipments.

Efficiency

Time is money, and Down River G-Force Products are designed to make securing shipments fast and easy. With our bracing and loading patterns tailored to your shipments and on-site training available, your loading operation can move as smoothly as possible.

Customer Satisfaction

With your customers, their perception is reality. Your reputation rides on every shipment you dispatch. Improperly secured shipments can cause customer dissatisfaction, lowered customer esteem, and lost sales. Down River G-Force expertise can keep your customers happy to do business with you by helping your products arrive in the same condition they left, time after time.

A broad range of products.
A broad range of industry experience.

Down River G-Force not only has one of the broadest product lines in the business, but our load securement innovations protect shipments for many industries. They're designed and implemented by a highly trained team of experts in the business to help companies of all sizes to secure their shipments for any mode. That's the meaning behind "You ship it. We protect it."
